

Daniel Phillip Connolly

Visiting Researcher, Sungkyun Institute for Global Strategy (SIGS)

updated: January 2021

danielconnolly78@gmail.com

Professional Career

2020-present Assistant Professor, Division of International Studies, Hankuk University of Foreign Studies.
2019-2020 Visiting Professor, Department of Political Science & Diplomacy, Sungkyunkwan University.

Education

2016 Ph.D. International Relations (Peace and Security), Korea University.
2013 M.A. International Relations (Peace and Security), Korea University.
2001 B.A. History, Thompson Rivers University.

Fields of Interests

History of International Relations, Evolution of Warfare, Security Implications of New Technologies

Recent Publications

2020 “South Korea’s Embrace of Good Donorship Norms: The Bureaucratic Process of Norm Translation” (Co-authored with Seok Joon Kim). Pacific Focus. Vol 35. No. 2.

2020 “The Human Security Implications of the Fourth Industrial Revolution in East Asia.” (Co-authored with Changrok Soh) Asian Perspective. Vol 44. No. 3.

2020 “New Frontiers of Profit and Risk: The Fourth Industrial Revolution’s Impact on Business and Human Rights.” (Co-authored with Changrok Soh) New Political Economy. Vol. 0, No. 0.

2019 “Learning to Share? A Cold War Solution for Denuclearizing the Korean Peninsula.” (Co-authored with Alexander Hynd) North Korean Review Vol. 15, No. 2.

2018 “New Rules for New Tools? Exploitative and Productive Lawfare in the Case of Unpiloted Aircraft.” Alternatives Vol. 43, No. 3.

2017 “The Rise of the Chinese Navy: A Tirpitzian Perspective of Sea Power and International Relations.” Pacific Focus Vol. 32, No. 2.